The Secretary of the Treasury continues his timely efforts for the relief of congested finance. After full and free conference with the leading financiers on Wall street and correspondence with the President it has been decided to break the ordinary procedure of maintaining official silence and announce in advance that on Wednesday of this week at noon proposals will be received at the department for the sale of 4 per cent bonds to the amount of $16,000,000. On this $20,000,000 will be let out, as the bonds are queted at 1.25, provided the holders will part with them at that price. He also offers to prepay for three-fourths of a year the interest on currency 6 per cents. These offers, with what has been accomplished already, it is hoped will give the necessary steadiness to the money market and enable the centers of business to go ahead with the season's operations without let or hindrance. The government doing so much for the financial operators, the latter should meet the government half way and not be exacting in the sale of such bonds as may hereafter be put on the market.

Let us arise and rejoice. Let us clasp our hands together and sing with a loud voice. Let us make merry and be glad. Let us sound the brass and tinkle the cymbal, for we are great in the land and our National Guard Rifle Team has won the Hilton Trophy at Creedmoor, which carries with it the international rifle shooting championship. Do you know what that means? It means when a bulls eye is to be hit more times than anybody else in all the wide world can hit it, it is done by the National Guard team of Washington, D.C! The N.G. rifle team, the carping critic called it before Saturday. And it is the N.G. team, but not that kind of an N.G. N.G. stands for National Glory! Bang! Boom! Whizz! Let the rockets fly and the cannons roar! New York thought she had a show. But she hadn't. New Jersey took it away from her. Then New Jersey gracefully yielded to the District of Columbin and with a score of 1017 out of a possible 1260 our detail from the old guard, which dies but never surrenders, took the triumph in the first match it ever entered, and did it as easily as if winning international rifle matches were its constant business. Nor did our shooters speak beastingly of their prowess ere it had been tested. They were quiet, so quiet that New York gloated over them and pointed at them the finger of scorn, and disesteemed them greatly in a public manner. But the Washington team knew what it was there for. And it got it. The ovation that will be tende red the champions tonight by their fellow militiam en of the N.G. is fitting and proper, and every man, woman and child in the District should rise up and flap his, her or its wings and crow once anyhow. It doesn't happen often and its all in the family.

So far. in America and in Sweden, the honors to the immortal Ericsson have been most fit in simple dignity and impressiveness. The Baltinore, bearing the remains, arrived at Stockholm on Friday and the ceremony was performed of delivering them first to the United States minister and then by him to Admiral Peyron. Swedish and American officers united in conveying the cortege by a procession of and guarantee every pair we sell. It is hence economy boats moving slowly smid the boom of minute guns from the Baltimore and the Swedish forts, the vessels in the harbor hauling down their flags to half-mast. Not to recite the entire story, the king's carriage was present and one hundred thousand persons viewed the procession. A special train bore away the body and its escort to Wermland, the great inventors' birthplace. The Baltimore's officers will be feted on Tuesday and Wednesday, dining with King Oscar on the latter day. It only remains for some modern saga to embalm forever in literature the deeds of the modern viking. The blood of Scandinavian heroes flows in the veins of the mightiest people of the living world.

The financial stringency seems assignable to at least two causes that lie on the surface: the advance of 25 per cent in the prices of cereals and the receipt of 60,000 more bales of cotton than had been received at this time last year. both of which items take much more money than usual to handle the crops. But the situation has been rendered more serious by apprehensions of the effect of the tariff on imported goods and the possible demand for accommods tion caused by the heavy payments of duty when the bill shall have gone into operation. There has been considerable speculation in goods imported in anticipation of the new tariff and also in all bonds, stocks and securities that could be manipulated.

The political doctrine enunciated in the Mississippi convention, that a state constitution, being framed by a constitutional convention clothed by the people with full powers, need not be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection, is doubtless good doctrine, judged by all the older precedents. But the modern practice in some states which requires it, is more distinctly democratic and commendable. The people did not so ratify the United States Constitution, but we have made some advances in democracy since 1787-'90, whatever else we may have lost or gained.

It will probably never be necessary for any international copyright legislation to be tried on the Congress, at Record. That publication is its own defense against radiscrimate publishing for general circulation.

Congressman Boutelle says he didn't aim at Mr. Blaine at all in his late belligerent utterances. His game was Senators Hale and Frye. Mr. Boutel's must be a little cross-eyed. From the direction of his eyes he was manifestly gunning for Mr. Blaine.

It is a hard thing for a man to be a republican in all the term implies in the state of Virginia, and ex-Gov. Comeron couldn't stand it.

The ex-governor might open negotiations with the Farmers' Alliance. The various competing designs for the Grant

Mr. Duncan, whose design for a Grant monument or mausoleum has been accepted by the New York Grant Monument Association, may secure a contract with responsible parties by coming to Washington.

Up to Saturday last 16,421 bills had been introduced in Congress seventy-three a day.

At the present rate of progress it will take about one hundred years to get these through.

As a civil service reformer Congressman Greevener is not what might be truly called a magnificent success. Mr. Grosvenor somehow has a way of crying wine and selling vinegar which does not consist, so to speak.

The Saturday Merror, a bundsome well-fillep weekly paper, made its first appearance on Sat-urday. Its publisher, William H. Pope, is a popular, well-known Washington newspaper

All good stories have sequels—and the new and spark-ling nevelties in Dress Goods we told you about Satur-day have their second volume in the PLAIN GOWN STUFFS.

Everybody doesn't like fancy clothing any more than you all like the same table delicacies. Tastes differ and fashion in laying down its rules for a season must respect the fancy and favor of her votaries-else she wouldn't be obeyed-and we are all willing to acknowledge that fashion is a good thing. It keeps the world modernized.

Sentiment don't sell clothes. It's price and quality. The LEAST of the FORMER for the MOST of the LATTER and things boom. Its no wonder we're doing the biggest trade in Cvercoats. It's a characteristic of humanity to appreciate fine things-and where they are at "surprise" prices-you'll find the people.

The latest Fashion Plates show the MEDIUM-WEIGHT OVERCOATS with bound and stitched edges-plain, inserted or inlaid velvet collars-plain or silk facings. You read of these things-naturally you look for them when you "set out" to buy a Coat. YOU'LL FIND 'EM HERE-all of them-in Cheviots, plain black and light shades-Meltons, Kerseys, Tweeds and Worsteds-Cut in the scale of longths that are proper. Plain weaves and wide wales. The linings and trimmings are as carefully salected and put in place as the outside fluishings. We're not ashamed to have you look our coats through and through. We're conscious they've all right

All eizes-for all size-men-$10 to $35. Wonder at the lowest price-appreciate the goodness of the higher grades-and applaud the elegance of the BEST.

BACK INTO THE OLD TRACES. A week from today your boys will commence again to "gain knowledge and wear out clothes." Make the first as easy and other as hard a task for them as poseible. The public school system is acknowledged to be superiorand so are OUR school clothes. OUR $3.50 and $5 SHORT PANTS SUITS-and $7.50 and 810 LONG PANT SUITS - are the hard-to-wear-out kind. $3.50 and 87.50 for reliable clothes may make you open your eyes-but they're all right. Low for "trustable" suits-but safe, for all that. Patterns the dirt won't spoil-fabrics the boyish pranks won't weaken-styles that are comfortsble and ment.

"Make a harbor" on school clothes while you've the time-and you'll find this is a "safe port,"
